INTERNAL REVENUE.—The receipts from this source to-day were $427,796.68. SENATOR BUCKINGHAM received a large umber of his Connecticut friends at his resi-

VOTE OF THANKS TO SPEAKER BLAINE Yesterday before the House adjourned, on motion of Mr. Voorbees, a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Speaker Blaine for the impartiality with which he presided over that body during the session.

VICE PRESIDENT WILSON and Governor Jewell, of Conn., marched up the Avenue this morning at the head of the 2d Connecticut regiment. Judging from the precision of his step, the Vice President has not forgotten his military experience.

is in town, the guest of General Chipman. The story of his appointment to and acceptance of a commissionership to the Vienua Exposition is like the card his caricatures represented on Mr. Greeley's coat tail—a myth. Mr. Nast will "do" the funny side of the inauguration for Harper's Weekly.

President, in accordance with the principles of the civil service rules, has promoted Levi P. Luckey to be his private secretary in place of Robert M. Douglass, whose commission has expired. Mr. C. C. Sniffin, formerly executive clerk, has been promoted to the office of assistant secretary, and Mr. O. L. Pruden to the office of executive clerk. These gentlemen are all well known, having been at the White House for some time, and their promotion is well merited.

UGURATION BALL BUILDING is announced by the Inauguration Ball Committee to take place to-morrow evening in the ball building, at which the West Point Military Academy band, the Artillery band of Fort Columbus, N. Y. harbor, and our own Marine band are to take part. The price of admission has been fixed at fifty cents for each person, which will enable every one to hear some of the finest military bands in this country, and to see the largest and most elegant room ever built in this, or, per-haps, any other country. The committee have manifested a proper spirit in thus complying with the great demand upon them by the resi-dent and visiting public to witness one of the grandest pageants ever attendant upon an inauguration or like ceremony, and we speak for them a grand success.

THE CLOSING HOURS OF THE 42D CONGRESS .-When the Senate returned to its chamber, at ten minutes to one o'clock yesterday, from the inauguration stand, on motion of Mr. Authony the hour for the daily meeting was fixed at twelve o'clock. Messrs. Hamlin, Sherman, and Casserly were appointed a committee to wait upon the President and inform him that the mate was ready to receive any communication he might have to make. The Senate then adourned until to-morrow In the House, Mr. Garffeld made a personal xplanation relative to the credit mobilier charges, and complained that he had not been recalled as he expected, after testimony conrecalled as he expected, after testimony con-flicting somewhat with his had been taken. He simply desired to notify the House that he would as soon as possible make a full statement reconciling the discrepancies. Mr. Poland said every gentleman implicated had had an oppor-tunity to come before the committee. Mr. Acker attempted to make a speech on universal amnesty, but objection was made, and he was amnesty, but objection was made, and he was obliged to suspend his remarks.

ate, yesterday, the national railroad bill, which had already passed the house, came up for final action. The bill was lost by a vote of 16 to 11. When the vote was announced there was an indignant demonstration. "Bring them out and we will tar and feather them;" "Jerk out Jarran," were uttered by persons in the gallery. The president directed the galleries to be cleared, and directed the arrest of any person who should refuse to go. There were fears of indignities to senators during the night.

THE MODOC PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.—The peace commissioners met on the 3d, and considered the different propositions for negotiations with the Modocs in secret session. Mr. Mescham thought them fair and honorable. Case and Applegate opposed anything short of an unconditional surrender. After the session the Indians called on Mr. Meacham, who distinctional surrender. tinetly stated the terms to them. General Canby promised them food, clothing, protection and amnesty. Unless there is sanctification in inauguration old, as there is in a frozen river when the ice is broken for delicate women to be immersed for religion's sake, who are said always to escape illness, there must certainly be much suffering in the city to-day. The cold endured during the day scarcely acclimated any one for all to be endured at the ball. Hereafter the proverb, "as cold as Christmas," must be changed to "as cold as the 4th of March." 'The ball-room and supper were all that had been foreshadowed, perfect in beauty and abundance; it was only the intense cold that marred the effect. Ladies, for the evening, ignored all vanities, and appeared in the warmest wrap pings they possessed; gentlemen were en regle in hats and overcoats. The music was of the very best, and those who danced enjoyed the space allotted them. It was late before the company arrived, as it took some time for every one to make up their minds, after the sufferings of the lay, to again venture forth. It was quite halfpast 11 o'clock before

THE PRESIDENT AND CABINET arrived. The marine band struck up " Hail to the Chief," (N. B. The marine band knows that as well as the Mocking Bird,) the crowd parted on either side and the distinguished guests, escorted by the reception committee, passed up the center of the room to the platoccupy. First came the committees, then President Grant, escorted by Goy. Cooke and Mr. A. R. Shepherd. Vice President Wilson followed, who was escorted by Mr. Hallett Kil-bourn. Then came Col. James G. Berret with Mrs. Grant, Lieut Fred D. Grant and Miss Nellie, Secretary and Mrs. Fish, Secretary and Mrs. Boutwell, Secretary Belknap, Secretary Robeson, Secretary and Mrs. Delano, Postmaster General Creswell, Attorney General and Mrs. Williams and Speaker Blaine and lady The arrival of the distinguished visitors was o course the event of the evening. As soon as the party had reached the platform, the guests proceeded to pay their respects, Blacque Bey, the Turkish minister, leading off in that direction.

The President's platform happened, in consequence of the turn in the weather and the high northerly winds, to be at the cold end of the room, and the handsome toilettes of the tadies were partially concealed by crmine capes. The President and Mrs. Grant were the central figures. Mrs. Fish was sitting a little back with the Secretary of State behind her chair. Next was Mrs. and Miss Boutwell, the Secretary of the Treasury with them, next Mrs. Creswell, then Mrs. Williams, and next Mrs. Delano. Miss Grant stood by the side of her mother, Miss Edith Fish was with her mother. Miss McIntyre accompanied Mrs. Creswell. Gov. Cooke, with his wife and daughter were next. Cooke, with his wife and daughter, were next to the Cabinet ministers. Jay Cooke was also present. Mrs. John Delano was with her mothr-in-law. Back of the Cabinet stood some of dress, but some of them were brilliant with decorations. Madame Preston accompanied the Haytien minister, and Madame Flores the minister from Ecuador. By this time the room was quite full, and its influence was felt by a graduate full, and its influence was felt by a graduate full, and its influence was felt by a graduate full. nal warmth pervading the atmosphere. was eminently a success. It was ready before he ball was, and its choice supplies never gave out. It was beautifully arranged and was composed of the most tempting viands. But, alas, the cold! Even thin sandwiches, which always strongly tempt the writer of this, could not tempt in that frigid atmosphere. There were an abundance of attendants; there were bountiful supplies of champagne and claret punch, which did not need the usual admixture of ice to dilute and cool them. The air was enough to do the last, and really no one wished the first In fact every one

But the supper table had a cheering look, and no private supper was over more lavishly sup-plied or more handsomely ornamented, nor bet-ter supplied with choice articles of food. The room was decorated with laurel rope and the national colors, and the table was covered with white muslin. The entrances were numerous in all measuring upwards of 150 feet.

The President had a private supper room for himself, family, cabinet, &c., also, what there was of the diplomatic corps. The room was handsomely decorated, and also the table. It was piled up with luxuries-salmon, in huge dishes, preserving its fishy form; wild turkeys, hovering in the most natural manuer over the delicious food they could offer when the right stroke came; delicious boned turkey; pates. everything, in short, which the well stimulated appetite can enjoy.

The Presidential reception rooms, and the

The Presidential reception rooms, and the dressing-rooms for himself and other gentlemen invited, and those for the ladies, were not only well decorated, but actually moderately warm. The dressing-rooms for all the ladies were quite comfortable by comparison. There is no use disguising the fact that the cold paralyzed all the good results for which the committee have for many weary weeks worked so hard and so faithfully. All honor to the committee, but a vote of censure to the weather bureau.

The arrangements for the preservation of property—i. e., wraps—was far better than the occasion demanded, for gentlemen wore their overcosts, and in many instances their hats, and the ladies piled shawl on shawl, and some appeared in street dresses and hats. Few new dresses were worn, by the habitues of Washington society at least. Ladies learn to be prudent here. Very few ladies of the diplomatic corps appeared. The cold and the delay in the receipt of their invitations was the cause assigned.

Vice President Wilson was one of the early comers, reaching the ball about 10 o clock, and promenaded until the arrival of the President. Much was expected in the way of cheerful music from the army of canary birds provided for the ball-room, but they were too cold to sing. Now and then a squad of them would get excited by the band-music, and set up a lively little song, but they didn't find the temperature good for their throats, and pretty soon they would stop piping, put on their wraps, and tuck their bills and toes under their feathers for

THE COMMITTEES AND THEIR WORK. The systematic arrangements for the convenience of guests was something new in the way of inauguration balls, and the various committees carried out their plans proposed with exceptional fidelity.

The general committee consisted of Alex. R. Shepherd, president; Henry D. Cooke, Wm. Dickson, Hallet Kilbourn, J. W. Thompson, John O. Evans, A. M. Clapp, Amos Webster, Thos. L. Hume, Ben. for dancing was furnished by the U. S. Naval Academy band, T. Schoff leader; the promenade music by the bands of the U. S. Marine corps, Henry Pries leader, and the U. S. Military Academy band, Johann Wilhelm and Carl Beam leaders.

Other Entertainments, Besides the grand inauguration ball there were numerous other entertainments given, which will be noticed under this head.

RECEPTION OF THE OHIO ASSOCIATION. Masonic temple was well filled last evening, the occasion being a reception tendered their friends by the Ohio State Association. During the evening, Gen. Sheridan and staff, besides many of the visiting military, were present. During the evening, the Columbus glee club, thirty-four in namber, sang many beautiful songs. General Sherwood, member-elect from Ohio, and others of the Congressional delega-Ohio, and others of the Congressional delega tion, were present.

BALL OF THE TERRITORIAL GUARDS The ball given by the National Territorial Guards, a colored military organization, at Union League hall, was well attended, and quite successful. The room was handsomely ecorated with flags and evergreens, and a bountiful supper was furnished the guests.

At the Columbia Law building, (the head-quarters of the Pioneer corps.) a very agreea-ble time was spent last night—music, singing, and dancing being in order. The festivities were kept up until morning. It is needless to say that Col. Perry Carson was in his glory.

The City Last Night. THE GRAND DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS.

Thousands of persons were out last night, notwithstanding the severity of the weather, to witness the display of fireworks, which took place between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock. The points where the largest crowds gathered were at the Treasury building and the Capitol, the south side of the former building and the streets adjacent being densely packed during the exhibition. The display commenced with the explosion of rockets and imitation bombshells from the open space on the line of the old canal, and about the Capitol grounds and White Let.

followed in rapid succession along the same line. The exhibition inside the enclosure south of the Treasury were the tree of independence; carmine illumination; rocket few de joie; ascension of signal balloons, displaying meteors, showers of colored stars, &c., in mid air; grand flight of bembshells of various colors; revolving Yankee windmill, extra large; emerald illumination; cross of honor of the Grand Army of the Republic; battery and bombshell display; in its glory; Greek fire illumination, prismatic kaleidescope, jewel fountain, flights of rockets, &c.; sun of American glory; scarlet illuminais known, and at the conclusion the crowds hurriedly dispersed, to seek warmer quarters in their respective homes.

Numbers of the buildings on the avenue, among them T. L. Hume's grocery establishment, George W. Goodall's gas-fitting establishment, Philp & Solomous, and the First National Bank were handsomely illuminated, and the whole avenue was almost as bright as Authoral Bank were handsomery infuminated, and the whole avenue was almost as bright as day, it being lighted up by powerful calcium lights, placed at intervals between the Capitol and the Treasury building. Owing to the attractions on the avenue, and the grand ball, the places of amusement were not overcrowded with spectators. THE RUSH FOR THE DEPOTS

There was a great rush last night for the trains leaving for the north and south, and, although the police did what they could, they could not manage the crowd, and as soon as cars were at the platforms a scene of inde-scribable confusion would follow. The roads were unable to take all the applicants for passage, and both at the Baltimore and Chio and Baltimore and Potomac depots many remained all night, and some on the outskirts of the crowd suffered from the cold while waiting for cars to be backed in. The waiting rooms and the halls and offices of the neighboring hotels even contained standing sleepers.

A NORTH CAROLINIAN ROBBED OF $70,000.

In such crowds the light-fingered gentry had a fine field for operations, and some lost by them. Judge Underdunk, of Wilmington, N. C., in attempting to get on the Richmond train, at 11.20 last night, was relieved of his wallet contaming $200, and over $70,000 of notes, &c., be longing to a southern railroad with which he is connected.

The steamer Lady of the Lake, with the reg-ular artillery from Fortress Monroe, was detained down the river by head winds; and, from the statements of some of those on board, they did not have a very pleasant time—the boat being heavily laden, and the waves breaking now and then over the lower decks. ALMOST A RUN-AWAY.

About 110'clock last night the horses attached to the carriage of Secretary Delano became frightened at the steam whistle at the inaugural ball building, and started to run, but were caught by Sergeant Brosnan. A complimentary screnade was tendered to senators Conkling and Fenton last might by the Albany Burgess Corps. Senator Conkling made a brief address of welcome, and was replied to by Congressman Perry, in behalf of the corps. Senator Fenton, having having been ill for some days past, was unable to appear, but was represented by his secretary, Mr. W. P. Tisdel, who addressed the callers briefly, stating that he had been requested by Miss Fenton to express the regret she felt that her father was unable himself to extend a welcome.

APTER THE INAUGURATION.

Pennsylvania avenue has been enlivened all day by the bands of the various organizations which did not return to their homes last night. At about half-past nine o'clock the Boston Lancers, dismounted, passed up and down the avenue in full dress uniform, and attracted much attention by the stirring music of their band and the excellent marching of the com-

THE PRESIDENT OVERERY WITH VISITORS The President's House to-day was visited by a large number of persons, who were admitted to the cast room. This afternoon while the President was passing through the hall where there were probably 200 persons, some ladies insisted on taking him by the hand, and the rest tollowing their example, the President good humoredly held an impromptu reception.

Cadets on the avenue this morning, between 9th 10th streets, was the most interesting feature of the day, and attracted thousands of persons to that locality. Upon the invitation of Mr. A. Gardner, the Secretary of War and party witnessed the parade from the balcony in front of his establishment, over Wall & Robinson's, With the Secretary were Vice President Wilson, Speaker and Mrs. Blaine, Sir Edward Thornton and lady, Blacque Bey and lady, Gen, and Mrs. Ricketts, Mrs. Gen. Sherman, and others. others. About half-past ten o'clock Lieut. Johnson, with a squad of police, cleared that

In a few minutes thereafter the battalion of cadets, numbering over two hundred and fifty, marched down the avenue, preceded by their band, and under command of Gen. Upton, superintendent of the academy. The parade having been formed and the usual salute pand to the Secretary of War, a battalion drill took place. The boys were put through the man ual of arms and then the various field evolutions, all of which were executed with great precision, and drew forth cision, and drew forth

SMITH, THE COLORED CADET. was of course anxiously sought after by the en-rious crowd. He occupied the right of the sec-ond platoon first company, but was not easily discovered, as he is a very bright mulatto, with straight hair, and not as easily singled out as the boys Convers with the midshipmen yester-day. The youngest soldier known in history.

Among the many notable persons present at the inauguration of President Grant was Lieut.

John L. Clem, of the 24th U. S. Infantry, who reached here a few days since from his regiment at Fort Brown, Texas, in order to place in the National Asylum an invalid soldier. Lieut. Clem has a national reputation, and is written down in Frank Moore's Rebellion Record, and in Lossing's History of the Civil Conflict in America, as "Little Johnny Clem, the Drummer-boy of Chickamauga," at which battle he laid aside his drumand assumed the musket during the entire day. During the retirement of the Union army from the field he then performed a guerre d mort upon a Colonel of a Texan regiment, who had ridden up with a

Among all the military organizations brought to the city by the inauguration celebration, none attracted or deserved more attention than the 2d Connecticut regiment. Unfortunately, owing to bad railway management, it was not able to get here to take any part in the ceremonies of the day—a fact which was greatly regretted by all who had an opportunity to see the fine display it made in its march up the Avenue atter the procession had broken ranks. In one sense, however, the men composing it were the gainers by this, as they seemed to attract all the more attention to-day while marching and drill.
